Recognition

Alta Verde Group, based in Los Angeles with offices in Rancho Mirage, Southern California's premier developer of modern, architecturally significant, urban-inspired home communities, was recently named the third fastest-growing private company in Los Angeles County by the L.A. Business Journal in its annual ranking of the top 100. Alta Verde Group saw its revenue spike by an astonishing 2,935 percent to $52 million in 2014. "It's satisfying to be recognized so prominently on such an impressive list," said Alta Verde Group CEO Andrew Adler. "We saw a unique opportunity to create a new standard of luxury homes with sustainable features and ultra-chic modernist architecture, such as Escena in Palm Springs. Clearly buyers have embraced that vision and we're looking forward to building on that momentum with our latest project, Linea." Alta Verde Group and Mr. Adler have earned the industry's most prestigious architecture and design honors, including the Golden Nugget Award for Best Home Design and National Association of Homebuilders Builder of the Year. Their next project, Linea in Palm Springs, will arrive in 2016.
